DETAILED ACTION

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 10, 11, 14, and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (b) as being anticipated by Calleson (5,152,339).

Calleson discloses a heat exchanger (see Figs. 3, 9, and 11) including a plurality of tubes (112) having bores (Fig. 11), a first and second header pipes (Fig. 9 and col. 5, lines 8-11) each including a partition wall (204) a pipe-inside bore portion (at 130) divided into two regions by the partition wall (204), and a tube insertion bore portion (at 200) formed on a first area of a side wall (150) in slit shapes (Fig. 7) to accommodate first end portions of the tubes(112), first and second connector bore portions (Fig. 9) formed on the side wall opposing to the first area and opening to the two regions of the pipe inside flow through bore portion (Fig. 9), inlet and outlet connector blocks (210) having end portions accommodated in the connector bore portions (Fig. 9), a centerline of the end portion of the inlet connector block being aligned with a centerline of the first partition walls (Fig. 9) , the in and out pipes having a circular internal cross section (Fig. 9).

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 12, 13, 16, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calleson (5,152,339).

Calleson, as discussed above, discloses a heat exchanger having the claimed structure with the exception of the bores of the in and out pipes having rectangular or elliptical cross sections.

However, it would have been obvious to make the bore of the in and out pipes of Calleson any desired shape based on the desired strength and aesthetics of the pipe.

5. Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Calleson (5,152,339) in view of Inaba et al (5,911,274).

Calleson, as discussed above, discloses a heat exchanger having the claimed structure with the exception of an end portion of the connector block inserted to a position in front of an end face of the bore.

Inaba et al disclose an end portion of a heat exchanger connector block (see Fig. 5) inserted to a position in front of an end face of the bore (at 127a).

It would have been obvious in view of Inaba et al to insert an end portion of the connector block to a position in front of an end face of the bore in the heat exchanger of Calleson to more securely hold the connector tube in place.

6. Claims 6-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Yamauchi et al, Martins, Loomis et al, and Lee et al are cited to show heat exchanger structure.
